Topic 1

There are many different kinds of people in the world: black, white, male, female, minorities. However, many people experience discrimination. Recently, there are protests in many countries against the discrimination many black people face. It is more difficult for them to find good jobs. They often get poorer care at hospitals. Women also experience discrimination. For example, there are not many women in leadership positions. Also, recently in Japan, some universities made it harder for a woman to enter medical school. Education is important. We need to understand that 'different' does not mean 'bad'. But the most important thing is to treat people the way we would like to be treated.

Topic 2

When I was five, my family moved. I finally got my own room instead of sharing with my sisters. I was really happy about that. One night when my parents were out, my three older sisters and I watched a horror movie. Usually my mother didn't let me watch those kinds of movies, but my sisters said it was okay. We ate candy and had a great time. That night in my room alone, I had a terrible nightmare. In it, a vampire floated over my bed. I woke up terrified and crying. My sisters got in trouble for letting me watch that movie. Since then, I avoid horror movies.
